

John Trus: Bio

For 24 years John Trus has helped global technology companies grow revenue, refine solutions and develop their partners/channels while helping align strategic priorities. John has held key management and business development roles in a variety of private and public companies. In the past 10 years he has run a consultancy to provide those services on contract to US, Canadian and European clients.

He is an alumnus of Wilfrid Laurier University and has been involved with that institution for the past nine years in Board roles. He currently sits on the Laurier Board of Governors, and also serves on the Board of Directors of the Laurier Alumni Association (WLAAA).

John joined the Food for Life Board in December 2014 and previously worked with the organization on a volunteer project.

He and his wife Doris live in Oakville.